Power in Relationships.
All relationships involve power. Power can be handled well to empower others or misused to control or abuse. In our partner relationships and families, we tend to handle power in either power-over or power-with ways, or sometimes neglect to use our power at all, which impacts the shape and quality of our relationships. Strong power imbalances risk becoming abusive. Things we can do to handle power well include talking about it, calling out misuses and abuses if safe to do so, and getting help when we don't have the power to make changes on our own. Therapists and other professionals with knowledge of power dynamics in relationships can help..

PAUL'S MISSIONARY JOURNEYS IN GREECE (APRIL 3 - 13. 2026): Travel by motor coach (6 days) and cruise ship (3 days) to sites connected with Paul's second and third missionary journeys, as well as visit other major sites of biblical, archaeological, and cultural interest. Jeff Weima, professor at Calvin Theological Seminary and leading Pauline scholar, hosts this inspirational tour. For more information, contact Dr. Weima at 616-328-3110 or weimje@calvinseminary.edu.

MISSING FELLOWSHIP:
The beginning of a new life together, Audrey and I on July 1961 were married. It also was the beginning of a new membership with the Lindsay Christian Reformed Church. Our first born child was baptized by Rev. Ringnalda. I had the priviledge to help with the building of the new church building. Our children received solid spiritual education. We both were active in many programs. We made God and the church the centre of our family and are thankful for many blessings. The church is a firm foundation with Jesus Christ our Lord.
